

READING IS THINKING

To read, you must think about what is being read. To think about what you are reading, consider the following reading strategies and sentence starters.

Use THREE different strategy sentence starters each time you respond to reading.

CONNECTING

I remembered that earlier in the book...
This part reminded me of...
This makes me think of...

QUESTIONING

One question I have is...
Something I am wondering is...
I would ask... why (he/she) ...

INFERRING

I figured out that...
I concluded that...
I predict that...

EVALUATING

I disagree with...
I do not like how...
Something that I would explain more is...

REPAIRING

I felt confused when...
One word that I will look up is...
I got stuck when...
I do not understand why...
I first thought..., but then I realized that...

VISUALIZING

I could picture...
The image I see is...

SYNTHESIZING

I finally understood...
The real message is...

SUMMARIZING

Something important is...
This part is mainly about...
The main point is...
Something important that happened is...
